

Instructions: Print this PDF document and tape the four pages to the four corners or the four different sides of a room (one page per side/corner). Next, ask students a question and get them to move to the corner that best represents their take on the specific issue is question: agree, disagree, strongly agree, or strongly disagree. Finally, facilitate a discussion that allows for individuals within the four corners to justify and recruit others to join their corner.

As an ice-breaker activity, try one of the topics below:

Toilet Paper should always be placed with the paper coming over the top.

Homework is something students should have to do after every class.

Smart phones should not be permitted in the classroom.
